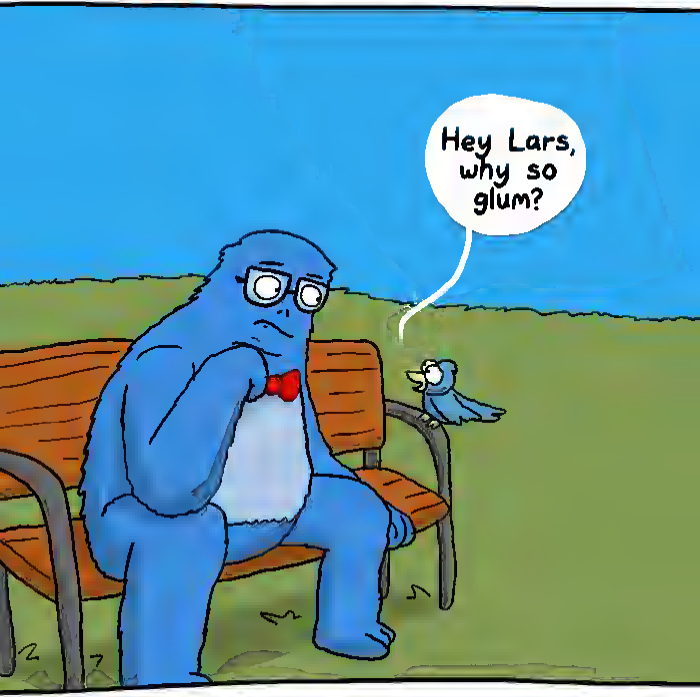
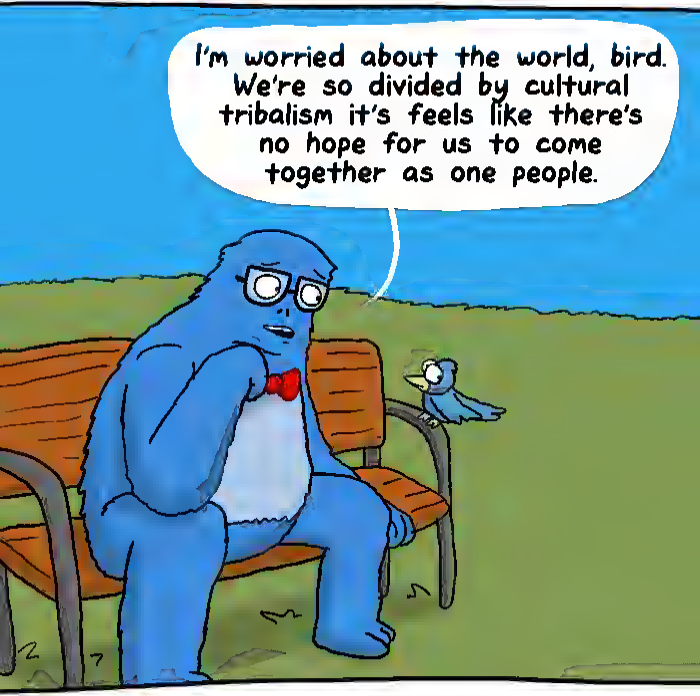
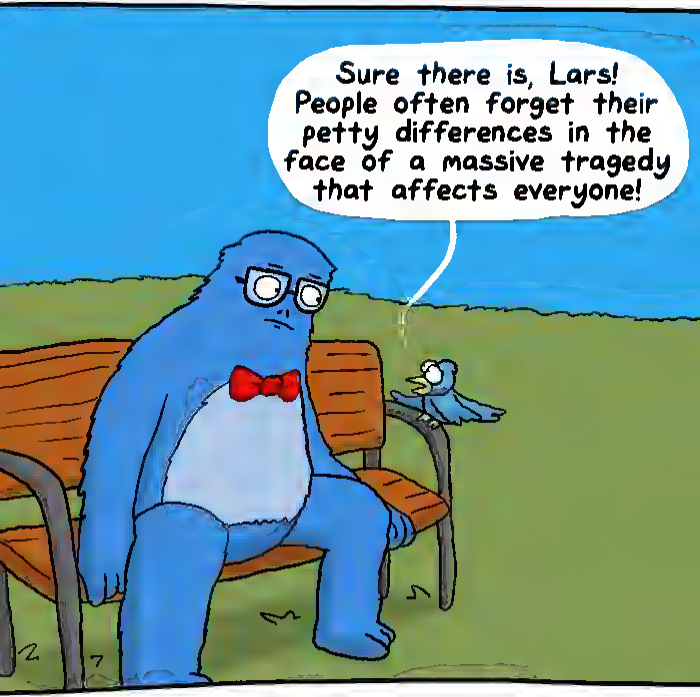
Lars



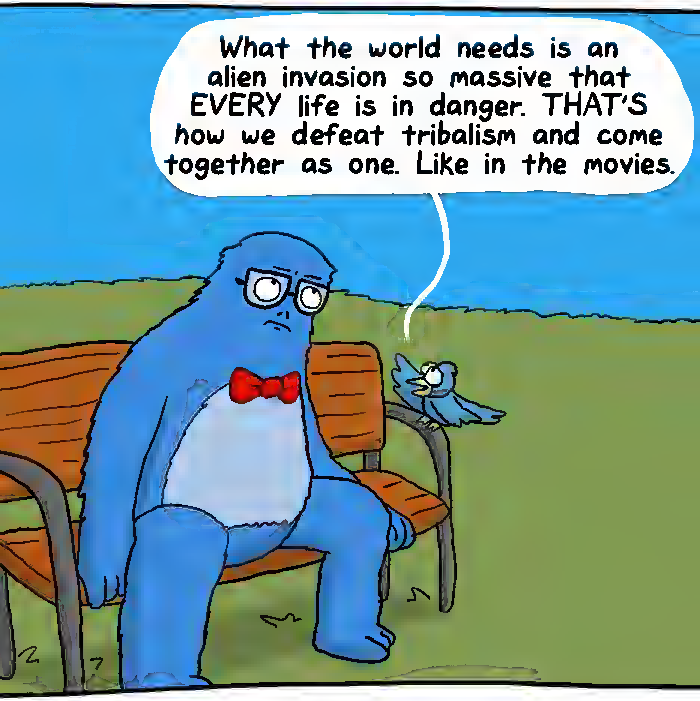
Hey Lars, why so glum?



I'm worried about the world, bird. We're so divided by cultural tribalism it's feels like there's no hope for us to come together as one people.



Sure there is, Lars! People often forget their petty differences in the face of a massive tragedy that affects everyone!



What the world needs is an alien invasion so massive that EVERY life is in danger. THAT'S how we defeat tribalism and come together as one. Like in the movies.

It may sound grim, but at least people wouldn't be fighting over their preferred sports team.
True.